

Dr. Georges El Mollayess is an Assistant Professor in clinical practice at the Lebanese American University Medical Center-Rizk Hospital (LAUMC-RH) and Head of Ophthalmology Department at Monla Hospital located in Tripoli, North Lebanon, Lebanon. He graduated from medical school at the American University of Beirut Medical Center (AUBMC) where he continued his Ophthalmology residency. He did one year of medical retina fellowship at AUBMC after that he travelled to Montreal, Canada where he completed two years fellowship in Vitreo-Retinal Surgery and one year in Ocular Oncology. He has been practicing in Lebanon for 3 years. His main area of interest is the treatment of retinal disorders: Age Related Macular Degeneration, Diabetic Retinopathy, Retinal Vein Occlusions, Retinal Detachment, Vitreous Hemorrhage, Epiretinal membrane, Macular hole and Intraocular Tumors. He is a member of the Lebanese Ophthalmological Society (LOS) and a member of the American Academy of Ophthalmology. He is an author of over 16 articles in peer reviewed journals.